

Gardening Article

March is here and its time to get ready for spring. It should be your goal to get all the garden maintenance done early this month. Your permanent plants, like trees and shrubs should also be in the ground by the end of this month. Planting in March allows time for roots to establish before the hot days of summer arrive. Fertilizing this month will supply your plants with the nutrients they need for a splendid growing season.

For summer color you may want to plant callas, dahlias, and cannas. Annuals like marigolds, petunias, cinerarias, and begonias will provide instant spring color. Vegetables to plant this month include, broccoli and cauliflower transplants and peas, beans, lettuce, and spinach from seed. Be on the look out for aphids, snails, slugs, earwigs, and mildew, as they will start making their way to your plants this month.

For more gardening information go to www.crownslandscaping.com